Photo Framing:

Standard photo frames and print sizes vary in their ratio of length to width as you go up the size range. For example 6x4 prints are 3:2 ratio but 7x5, 8x6 and 10x8 are progressively nearer to square so there is some variable cropping of the length of the original 3:2 ratio image. This must be taken into account when deciding how to frame photographs and when choosing the optimum print sizes. However please remember that all these sizes can also be printed in the original 3:2 ratio (e.g. 7.5x5, 9x6 and 12x8) but will then need special framing in a larger frame with a mask since standard frames of this shape are not available in the larger sizes. Each photo must thus be assessed in terms of how it can best be framed, i.e. whether it will stand cropping of its length or not. In many cases cropping will improve the image with a better matching of print shape to subject.

Many photos can also be used in different ways. For example a vertical full length photo of one person or a group of people can often be cropped and enlarged to give an alternative horizontal head and shoulders image. If you are unsure about how any particular photo will best fit a specific format then please ask. All can also be printed in Black and White or Sepia at no extra charge.
